

"Most of my subjects come from nature, ranging from landscapes to animals to still lives of bones and shells. Water is a recurring theme. Trying to capture images realistically yet artistically in this difficult-to-control medium is an ongoing challenge. Tantalizing glimpses of success keep me going. Working from photographs, watercolors or my imagination I also compose images on the computer. These tend to feature layers and textures and are more abstract. Multiple 'undos' encourage experimentation."
