

Gregory Trakimas

"Family gatherings have always been an important part of my life. Starting with a Polaroid camera given to me by my grandmother, I quickly became the "official family photographer" at all gatherings. Years later my parents gave me my first digital camera and the rest is history.

My photographs demonstrate my passion for imaging the world. My landscapes and nature photos show my growth in seeing forms. I have discovered my passion in photography and hope that I will be able to show others the awe that I experience through my photos."
